Student A: These two people are both concerned with movements seeking equal human rights for blacks. Does anyone know something about them?

Student B: Yes. I know the man in picture a. His name is Martin Luther King, Jr. He was a minister and social activist who led the civil rights movement in the United States from the mid-1950s until his death by assassination in 1968. I'm sure many people know of his famous speech "I Have A Dream!"

Student C: The man in picture b is Nelson Mandela. We have already learned about him in the textbook. He was a South African politician who served as President of South Africa from 1994 to 1999. As President, he gave priority to reconciliation, and introduced policies aimed at fighting against poverty and inequality in South Africa.

Student A: We should learn a lot from those two people who made great contributions to the establishment of equal human rights and continue to pass their legacy down to the next generation.
